

Ready to develop your facilitation skills?

Registrations are now open for the Facilitation Skills workshop (Darwin)

The Australian Sports Commission (ASC), in partnership with the Department of People, Sport and Culture (DPSC), invites you to register for this free professional development opportunity.

Participants will:

- Engage in a blended learning experience comprising a 2-hour eLearning course and a 1-day face-to-face workshop.
- Explore practical facilitation skills and strategies to enhance learning outcomes in face-to-face courses and workshops.
- Learn how to design, plan and deliver engaging learning activities using learner-centred teaching methods

Workshop overview

In the 1-day workshop, participants will:

- Explore Amy Edmondson's Psychological Safety model and how it applies to learning environment design
- Bring the LEARNS framework to life to reflect on and design a learner-centred workshop experience
- Practice facilitation of conversations for learning.

Target

This development opportunity is relevant to:

- Face-to-face workshop or course presenters
- Facilitators of social learning or Communities of Practice
- Peak Sporting Body Training Managers can attend in either an active or observer role.

Date and venue

Tuesday 9 June 2026

9:00am to 4:30pm

Motorsports House, Hidden Valley Raceway

Due to the highly practical nature of the session, the face-to-face workshop will not have a virtual attendance option.
